

In focus:

Subregional Cooperation with the EU, or How can Ukraine not miss the integration boat?

Larion Lozoviy

The large window of opportunity that opened with the Polish Presidency of the European Union will soon begin to swing shut. If the long-awaited signing of the Association Agreement does not take place within the next six months, Ukraine will find itself having to seriously rethink its prospects and begin to look for new partners. The question is, what's better: to hold your breath and wait for the desired result or to start looking for new friends right now?

FPC IS COMING!

Today, most informational and analytical publications concentrate on several foreign policy areas, especially Eurointegration policy and Ukraine's relations with Russia and the CIS. However, no single publication in Ukraine today offers the big picture of what is going on in all of the country's foreign policy areas.

The International Centre for Policy Studies (ICPS) is pleased to announce the launch of a new electronic bulletin of foreign policy commentary—FPC. It will present a condensed but complete image of the world of foreign policy in Ukraine.

Raymond Struyk's book "Managing Think Tanks" is translated into Russian for the first time

Think-tanks do original research, they run educational programs, and they act as an instrument of public oversight. To that extent, they also influence the goals and values of their society.

This book is a practical guide to managing, growing and operating a think-tank. It will also be useful to a variety of funds and organizations that cooperate with think-tanks.
